To Whom It May Concern:

I'm writing to express my deep and sincere displeasure with the terms of the final settlement in the Microsoft antitrust case. I feel that the proposed conditions in no way restrict the company from repeating the actions that caused the problems in the first place; furthermore, the conditions include no significant penalty and enforcement in them, implying that there was no reason to pursue this case in the first place.

If Microsoft is allowed to continue its monopolistic behavior without check, it will cause even more problems in the industry beyond those already well documented in the trial. Please reconsider the proposed conditions, which do more harm than good.

I am strongly against the terms of the settlement, and for stricter penalties and enforcement.

Sincerely,
Brian Albers
